

6 Myths About Tax Professionals

Myth #1: All tax professionals have basically the same training.

The Truth: Not all tax professionals have the same training. Tax resolution specialists, enrolled agents and tax attorneys undergo a rigorous comprehensive training and participates in annual continuing education courses specifically dealing with IRS problems. They have access to up to date material on an ongoing basis.

Myth #2: All attorneys and accountants have experience with the IRS.

The Truth: Only a small percentage of lawyers and accountants have any experience in dealing with the IRS. Some attorneys simply prepare documents and many accountants deal only with accounting matters. The tax attorneys and tax resolution specialists at IRS Trouble Solvers all have direct experience successfully securing the best possible outcome for our clients.

Myth #3: The large national tax resolution firms have an advantage over a local tax resolution professional.

The Truth: National firms have no advantage over local tax resolution professionals and often are at a disadvantage. A local Tax Resolution Professional is in a unique position of understanding not only the local economy but also any other issues that may affect taxpayers living in his/her area.

Myth #4: Tax professionals listed on internet directories are carefully screened for qualifications.

The Truth: Most internet directories are nothing more than another advertising media. Sometimes, the only qualification required in order to be listed is the ability to pay big bucks for an “exclusive listing.”

Myth #5: A tax professional who can guarantee results must be better than those who do not guarantee results.

The Truth: No legitimate tax resolution professional can guarantee results. It is the IRS who ultimately decides the outcome of your case. It is only by choosing a skilled and experienced Tax Resolution Professional that you can enhance your chances of a positive result.

Myth #6: I don't need a tax professional to solve my IRS problem.

IRS Trouble Solvers were outstanding in handling my IRS mess for me. Patrick and his entire team were knowledgeable and put their knowledge to work for me. My late husband tried to solve this on his own, but was never able to get our issues resolved. Patrick and his team did get our issues resolved. Finally I no longer dread getting the mail or answering the phone. Having the weight of the IRS on my shoulders kept me up at night. Once Patrick resolved our issues a sense of calm came over me. You can not fix this on your own. You need an excellent, professional team on your side. Don't go this alone! Let Patrick and his team help you. It will be the best decision you ever make.
